Building and Garden Lots,

CONTIGUOUS to, and at a small distance from the city, to be sold at the coffee house in Second street, on Wednesday the 20th of March, at 6 o'clock in the evening, containing from about 1-4 of an acre to about 2 acres each. The small lots fronting on Vine and Callowhill streets, on the west side of Schuylkill Second street, and the large lots containing whole or half or quarter squares, some of them bounded on the west by Schuylkill and the upper ferry road including some fine quarry lots on Schuylkill: the whole containing about 140 acres, and formerly known by the name of Springsbury; bounded on the north by Francis street, extending from the Ridge road to Schuylkill, crossing the canal, on which several of the lots will give fronts.

The situation of many of the large lots is on high ground, commanding beautiful views of the Schuylkill, supposed to be sufficiently detached to escape any unfortunate disorder which may be prevalent in the city.—The terms will be made known at the time of the sale.

N. B. Maps of the lots are fixed up at the middle and upper ferries on Schuylkill; at Seybert's Tavern, in Second street, Northern Liberties; at Ogdens tavern in Chesnut street, and at the coffee house.

The convenience of stone so near the premises will give very advantageous to purchasers.
CONNELLY & Co. auct'rs.

Postponement.

☞ The uncommon severity of the weather having prevented many persons from viewing the lots above described, the sale is postponed until Saturday the 20th April next, when it will be held on the premises, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The terms will be cash for those lots which are 50 feet, and 49 and an half feet front, and for those of a larger size, one half the cash to be paid down and the other half in six months from the day of sale.
march 20

TAKE NOTICE,

THAT I am to be sold on such terms, that the purchaser need not advance any cash, unless, he pleases, till it is earned by my services, provided no accident happens me; or, if you please, I am to be farmed out for two years, and not less. I am a bright bay, full 15½ hands high, of noble descent, my name is TRIMMER—I was got by Hall's imported horse Eclipse, my dam, purchased by Doctor Hall, was got by the imported horse Slim; my grand dam was got by Old Figure; my great grand dam by Taskers Othello out of Selima, &c. &c. as will more fully appear by William Lyle's attested certificate who raised me. My character as a racer is well established; I won the colt's purse at Bladensburg of twenty guineas; I won a fifty guinea purse at Baltimore, a fifty guinea purse at Annapolis and a fifty guinea purse at Hagerstown. I never lost a race but the last I run at Alexandria, which was owning to my being badly shod, as I lost all my plates before I got in. I am in fine plight, sound in every respect; my offspring are in great repute, some of which are now in training for the turf—procure me good stands and entertainment and I am able to earn one thousand dollars per annum.

Any person inclining to buy or rent may know the terms by applying to John Carnan (Lovehall) Cecil county and state of Maryland, eight miles south of Elkton.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscribers, living in Somerset county, state of Maryland, on the 26th of December last, two Negro Men; George and Randel—George is about six feet high, twenty-two years of age, and of a yellow complexion—had on when he went away a dark cloth coat, kersey breeches and white yarn stockings; he is a pretty good player on the fiddle.—Randel is about five feet two inches high, twenty years of age, and of a yellow complexion, has a loud hoarse voice, and is a good deal bow-legged; he pretends to be something of a cobbler;—had on when he went away, a fustian coat, home-made kersey breeches and white yarn stockings. There is no doubt, but they will change their clothes as well as their names—they having been taken up on the 29th of December last at Duck-creek, in the state of Delaware, and committed by John Cole, Esq. (by the names of Stephen and Charles) to the care of John M'Wherts and Thomas Kerker, from whom they made their escape.——Whoever apprehends the above negroes, and has them secured in jail, so that the subscribers may get them again, shall receive the above reward, or fifty dollars for either.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,

TUESDAY EVENING, APRIL 2.

Extract from 'A Journal of the Occurrences at the Temple during the Confinement of Louis XVI. late King of France, by M. Clery, the King's valet-de-chambre.'

On the 7th of October, at six o'clock at night, I was summoned to the Council Chamber, where I found a score of municipal officers with Manuel as president, who, from being solicitor to the Commune, was become a member of the National Convention: the sight of him surprised and alarmed me. I was directed to remove, that very night, the Orders still worn by the king, such as those of St. Louis and the Golden Fleece: His majesty no longer wore that of the Holy Ghost, which had been suppressed by the first assembly.

I represented that I could not do it, and that it was not my part to make the decrees of the Council known to the king. I hoped by this to gain time to break it to his majesty, and I perceived besides, by their embarrassment, that they were then acting without the authority of any decree either of the Convention or the Commune. The commissioners were unwilling to go up to the king, till Manuel determined them by offering to go with them. The king was sitting, and engaged in reading. Manuel spoke first, and the conversation which followed was as remarkable for the indecent familiarity of the deputy, as for the temper and serenity of the monarch.

"How do you find yourself?" said Manuel; "have you every thing you want?"—"I content myself with what I have," replied his majesty.—"No doubt you have heard of the victories gained by our armies, of the taking of Spires, of Nice, and of the conquest of Savoy?"—"I heard it mentioned some days ago, by one of those gentlemen, who was reading the Evening Journals."—"What! don't you get the Journals, that are become so interesting?"—"I never receive any of them."—"Oh! Sirs," said Manuel, turning to the municipal officers, and pointing to the king, "you must let the gentleman have the Journals; it is right he should be informed of our successes." Then, again addressing his majesty—"Democratic principles are spreading: you know that the people have abolished Royalty, and adopted the republican form of government."—"I have heard it, and I pray to God that the French people may be as happy as I have always wished to make them."—"You too know that the National Assembly have suppressed all Orders of Chivalry: you ought to have been told to leave off the ornaments of them: returned to the class of other citizens, you must expect to be treated like others; with this exception, ask for whatever you want, it shall be immediately procured for you."—"I thank you," said the king, "I want nothing."—His majesty here returned to his book; and Manuel, who had been endeavoring to discover vexation, or provoke impatience in him, had the mortification of finding only a noble resignation, and an unalterable composure.

The deputation now withdrew, and one of the officers desired me to follow him to the Council Chamber, where I was again ordered to take the ornaments from the king's person. Manuel added: "You will do well to send the crosses and ribbons to the Convention. "I must also inform you," continued he "that Louis's confinement may last a long while, and that if it be not your intention to remain here, you had better take this opportunity of declaring it. It is also in contemplation in order to render the superintendence more easy, to decrease the number of people employed in the Tower: if you stay with the late king, you will entirely be left by yourself, and you must expect hard work: wood and water will be brought you once a week, but it will be your business to clean the rooms, and do the rest of the work." I replied, that being determined never to forsake my master, I would submit to every thing. I was conducted back to his majesty's chamber, who said to me:—"You heard what passed with those gentlemen—I would have you to night take off the orders from my coats."

The next morning, when I was dressing the King, I told him that I had locked up the crosses and ribbons, although Manuel had given me to understand that it would be proper to send them to the Convention.—"You have done right," replied his majesty.

It has been reported that Manuel came to the Temple, in the month of September, to prevail upon his majesty to write to the king of Prussia, at the time he marched his army to Champagne. I can testify that Manuel came but twice to the Temple while I was there, first, on the third of September, then on the seventh of October; that each time he was accompanied by a great number of municipal officers, and that he never had any private conversation with the King.

He once read in one of those papers, the petition of an engineer for the head of the tyrant Louis XVI, that he might load his piece with it, and shoot it at the enemy.—Another journal, speaking of Madame Elizabeth, and endeavoring to destroy the admiration she had excited in the public, by the noble manner in which she had devoted herself to the King and Queen, asserted that virtuous Princess to have had a child by a Bishop, adding, that this young wolf ought to be smothered, with the two others in the Tower, meaning the Dauphin and Madame Royale.

These articles affected the King only for the sake of the people. "How very unfortunate are the French," said he, "to suffer themselves to be imposed upon in this manner." If I saw these journals first, I took care to remove them out of his majesty's way; but they were frequently carried when I was employed elsewhere, so that very few of the articles written for the purpose of abusing the royal family, whether to excite the populace to regicide, or to prepare the minds of the people to suffer its being perpetuated, but what were read by the King. They only who remember the insolent writings that were published at that time can have an idea of this kind of unprecedented torture.

The influence of these sanguinary writings was also observable in the conduct of such of the municipal officers as had not before shewn themselves so hard hearted or distrustful as others.

One day after dinner, having just written an account of expences in the Council Chamber, and locked it up in a desk of which they had given me the key; my back was scarcely turned, when Marinot a municipal officer said to his colleagues, though he was not on duty, that they ought to open the desk, and examine its contents, to ascertain whether or not I had a correspondence with the enemies of the people. "I know him well," added he, "and am sure he receives letters for the king." Then accusing his colleagues of remissness, abused them violently, threatened to impeach them all before the commune as accomplices, and went out to put his threat into execution. A minute was immediately drawn up of all the papers in the desk, and sent to the Commune, where Marinot had already laid his information.

Another day, on seeing a draft board, (damier), which, with the permission of his colleagues, I had sent to be mended, brought back, he pretended it might contain a correspondence, had it entirely taken to pieces, and, when he found nothing, made the workmen paste it together again before him.

Once my wife and her friend coming to the Tower as usual on the Thursday, I was speaking with them in the Council Chamber when the Queen and Madame Elizabeth, who were walking, saw us, and nodded to us. This notice of mere affability, was observed by Marinot, and it was ground enough for him to have my wife and her friend arrested as they were going out of the Council Chamber. They were examined separately: my wife being asked who the lady was that accompanied her, declared she was her sister; while to the same question the other had replied that they were cousins. This contradiction furnished subject for a long written statement, and the most serious suspicions; Marinot pretending that this lady was one of the Queen's Pages in disguise. However, after a most painful and insulting examination, that lasted three hours, they were set at liberty.

They were still permitted to come to the Tower: but we redoubled our caution. I had often in those short interviews managed to slip into their hands notes written with a pencil, which had escaped the searches of the Municipal Officers, and which I concealed with great care. These notes related to some information their Majesties wished to have: luckily on that day they had not received any; if one had been found upon them, we should all three have been in the greatest danger.

There were others of the Municipal Officers who had the most extravagant whims. One ordered some macaroons to be broken to see if there was no letter concealed in them. Another, on the same pretence, had some peaches cut before him, and the stones cracked. A third, one day compelled me to drink the essence of soap prepared for shaving the King, affecting to apprehend it was poison. After dinner and supper, Madame Elizabeth used to give me a gold-bladed knife to clean, which the Municipal Officer would often snatch out of my hand, to examine if I had not slipt some paper into the sheath.

Madame Elizabeth having commanded me to send a book of devotion to the Dutchess de Serent, the Municipal Officers cut off the margins, for fear any thing should have been written upon them with a secret ink.

One of them one day forbade my going up to the Queen to dress her hair: Her Majesty was to come down to the King's apartments, and to bring her powder and combs herself.

Another would follow her into Madame Elizabeth's chamber to see her change her cloaths, which she usually did at noon: I represented to him the indecency of such behaviour, but he persisted, and her Majesty was obliged to give up dressing, and leave the room.

When the linen was brought from the wash, the Officers made me unfold article by article, and examined it always by daylight. The washerwoman's book, and every paper used for packing, were held to the fire, to ascertain whether there were not any secret writing upon them. The linen, after having been worn by the King, Queen, Prince, and Princesses, was in like manner examined before it was given out.

There were, however, some of the Municipal Officers who were not so hardened as their colleagues: but most of these becoming suspected by the Committee of Public Safety have fallen victims to their humanity, and those who are still alive have been long groaning in confinement.

A young man called Toulan, whom by his manner of speaking, I thought to be one of the greatest enemies of the Royal Family, came up to me one day, and pressing my hand, said with an air of mystery—"I can't speak to the Queen to-day, on "account of my comrades; let her know "that I have executed her commission, that "in a few days I shall be on duty, and that "I will then bring her an answer"—Amazed on hearing him speak thus, and fearing that he was laying a snare for me, I answered, that he was mistaken in addressing himself to me on such errands. "No, I am not mistaken," replied he, pressing my hand with still more warmth, and retiring. On my informing the Queen of this conversation, she told me I might trust Toulan. This young man was afterwards involved on her Majesty's trial, with nine other Municipal Officers, accused of having agreed to favour her escape at the time she was at the Toulan was put to death.

By this Day's Mail.

NEW-YORK, April 1.

A gentleman passeuger in the brig Venus, Shaw, from Antigua, informs that he came out with the Cork Fleet, and that 25 sail of the London Fleet had been captured by the Spaniards, The prisoners were put on board a cartel. He further adds that General Desfourneaux had made a declaration of War against the United States.

We understand a letter has been received in this city from Barbadoes, which mentions that the cartel with the prisoners from the ships captured by the Spaniards out of the London Fleet had met a French twenty gun ship with two of the prizes, which suffered her to proceed; after which fell in with a British frigate, and informed them the course the French vessel had taken. It is added that the frigate took the Frenchman, and retook the two English vessels.

We are informed there are letters in town from Jamaica, mentioning that the Earl of Balcarres had called an extra meeting of the Assembly, on purpose to lay before them some information he had obtained concerning the Foreign Negroes and Frenchmen who had received protections. The result of the meeting, it was supposed, would be an order for the whole of them to leave or be sent off the island immediately. The number of Negroes it is thought, are more than 12000. We are in hopes to obtain more particular information on this subject to-morrow.

From Jamaica Papers, received by the ship Cygnet.

ST. DOMINGO.

Since the arrangements made between gen. Maitland and Toussaint L'Ouverture have transpired, various conjectures have been made. There was no idea of making Toussaint L'Ouverture sovereign of St. Domingo; but of establishing in that island an administration of government similar to that now subsisting in the Isle of France, to regulate the trade of the colony, re-establish its plantations direct its commerce and protect it from the vexatious depredations of the French government. The only means to effect this was to put it under the protection of the British flag; to pour its produce into our ports; and to have recourse to our capitalists, who are alone capable of furnishing the funds necessary for cultivating the lands.

General Toussaint L'Ouverture, at the head of 25,000 negroes, thoroughly well disciplined, is the only person possessed of the military power to concur in this project.—white proprietors are indispensably necessary to him, in order to consolidate his authority; to compose a wise administration, and to organize and conduct the requisite operations.

It is on this plan that he has declared himself the protector of those that remain in the island, and that he has invited the emigrants to return.

It is on this basis that general Maitland has treated with him; and that colonel Grant, and the two commissaries attached to him are going to terminate the negotiation on terms agreed to by the British government.

General Toussaint is indeed acknowledged by the directory, commander of the republican troops on the island; but the Count de Malartie is also acknowledged by the directory commandant of the Isle of France.—Nevertheless it is certain, that the latter has sent away from the Isle of France all the republican troops: that he receives orders no longer from the French government; and has refused to admit the commissioners sent out to him.

Hedouville had but few partisans before his proclamation was issued, and it has diminished their number.

The last accounts informed us, that, in order to frustrate general Toussaint, in his design of sending him to France with the rest of the republicans, he was making preparation to re-embark himself. This will happen as soon as our commissioners arrive on the island, and will tend much to facilitate the object of their mission.

KINGSTON, February 14.

His majesty's ship La Legere, and brig Pelican, captain Philpot, arrived at Port Royal on Wednesday evening from a cruize: the latter bringing in with her a Spanish polacre, under Ligurian colours, her prize; she is out from Barcelona, and although we hitherto have but an unsatisfactory account from her, we suppose she brings later intelligence than we are in possession of. The report of Buonaparte's assassination was not contradicted when she sailed, and it is mentioned that an expedition, consisting of several sail of the line, under the command of commodore Duckworth, had gone against Teneriffe, and that preparations for war were general over all the continent of Europe.

We are informed that the Maidstone frigate fell in with the Spanish register ships from La Vera Cruz, bound to the Havannah, that several ships of war sailed hence, some considerable time since, with a view, it is said, to fall in with them; they were under convoy of two Spanish line of battle ships and a frigate.

By the account published in the Falmouth paper, it appears that lieutenant Ross, of his majesty's schooner Recovery, paid the utmost attention to the ship Queen Charlotte while in distress of Green Island, at 2 P. M. on the 3d instant, when the vessel was going down the captain and crew abandoned her, and went on board the Recovery, (the crew being totally exhausted, having been at the pumps for 23 hours) and in the course of ten minutes she went down, and not an article saved out of her. She was in every respect sea worthy when she left Black River, and is supposed to have started a plank.

February 16.

From an opportunity we had yesterday of conversing with the officers belonging to the Polacre brought in by the Pelican; we find that our statement in yesterday's paper is far from incorrect—we are enabled further to state, that she left Barcelona on the 28th of December, and that shortly after she fell in with some English men of war, by whom she was examined, and learned that admiral Earl St. Vincent had dispatched a squadron against the Canaries; she afterwards fell in with the said squadron, consisting of four sail of the line and a sloop of war, full of men, and was spoke by them. The captain mentions, that admiral Nelson had left Naples, and gone to Leghorn, with a fleet of transports under his convoy, having on board 28,000 Neapolitan troops, which took possession of the city, in order to repel an attack which it was supposed the French meditated—also that the king of Naples had taken possession of Rome with a large force, and that the Genoese had requested protection from the British admiral.

The capture of Minorca is fully confirmed by the Polacre.

It was generally believed at Barcelona, that there had been a private agreement between admiral St. Vincent's and the Spanish government respecting the giving it up.

The accounts respecting the death of Buonaparte were brought by a Greek vessel, but differ from what we have received via London. They state him to have retreated with his army to Damietta, where he had been encountered by the Arabs and totally routed, he himself killed, and his army cut to pieces. His head it was reported, had been afterwards sent, preserved in spirits, to Constantinople.

March 15, in lat. 25, at 2 P. M. saw a sail standing for us from under Cuba shore—At half past three, she came fast up with us; and, seeing she was a low schooner (of 6 guns and 50 men) cleared ship for action—At 4, tacked ship, and stood down towards her; and a quarter before 5, being very near us, fired a shot at her—we still standing on towards her gave her another; at which she hoisted English colours, and gave us a shot. Not chosing to trust to their colours we up with our American Ensign, and kept up a constant fire for 40 minutes, but, she got on her larboard quarter, and hailed us—and, finding they, were English, hove too, when they boarded us took possession of the ship, and used us very ill, by beating us off the deck, &c. In the action our cook was killed by a musket shot. They immediately took us all on board the privateer, except Capt. Gore, and confined us in irons—N. B. The Privateer was named John and Dick, of N. Providence, John Miller, master.

March 17, at 2 P. M. saw several sail to windward. At 3, counted five sail. At half past 4, a ship, 3 schooners and a sloop, under American colours came up, and was brought too by a shot from the sloop, and ordered under the ship's lee. At 5 several boats passed to and fro. It proved to be Capt. Decatur on a cruise, through whose influence we were liberated from the privateer—shifted the prizemaster and crew on board their own vessel, and made sail.

Lat. 39, long 72 picked up several pieces of a vessel, and a ship's yawl, with "AMERICAN, PHILADELPHIA" on her stern. Capt. N, says, at the time he picked up the aboves art cles, he saw apples, oranges, dead fowls, &c. floating.

A few days before Capt N. sailed, an armed brig of 12 guns from Baltimore arrived there—had lost the captain overboard in a gale.

Though Cadiz was still blockaded by the English, yet Captain N. says, the inhabitants were in dread of the appearence of Admiral Nelson, who was daily expected before that city.

A confirmation of the assaffination of Buonaparte had been received at Cadiz, just before Captain N. sailed,

Capt. Dunn, on Saturday, spoke a Hamburgh ship in 39 days from Bordeaux, for this port, wanting a pilot.

A Pilot, who arrived last evening, reports that there are 5 ships and 2 brigs below.

In gentle warnings to the unsettled breast,
In all it's wand'rings from the realms of rest,
From impious scoffs and ribaldry to turn,
And Reason's Age by reason's light discern;
Refix insulted truth with temper'd zeal
And feel that joy which Watson best can feel.

True Genius marks alone the path to life,
And Fame invites, and prompts the noble strife,
Her Temple's everlasting doors unbarr'd;
Desert is various, various the reward:
No little jealousy, no ill-tim'd sneer,
No envy there is found, or rival fear.
Methinks on Babylon fond fancy dreams,
Her vale of willows by the mournful streams,
Where Hebrew lyres hung (f) mute! o'er Sion's hill
Blows the chill blast, and baneful dews distill.
Where is the charm, that sense to virtue binds,
The social sympathy of learned minds,
The common int'rest, universal cause,
And all that piety to genius draws?
How sweet to hear, on that Parnassian mount,
Mild waters welling from the favor'd fount:
Oh, never may Castalia's streams divide
From Siloa's brook, and Jordan's hallow'd tide.

MR. ROSCOE.

But hark what solemn strains from Arno's vales
Breathe raptures wafted on the Tuscan gales!
LORENZO rears again his awful head,
And feels his ancient glories round him spread;
The Muses starting from their trance revive,
And at their ROSCOE's bidding, wake and live. (g)
The LATIAN GENIUS vindicates his state,
And proudly hails the great Triumvirate, (h)
Lords of the lyre, and fathers of the song,
In Fancy's order as they pass along.
There musing deep in philosophic groves,
His Tuscan Academe, (i) Lorenzo roves;
While prophets of his great reviving name,
From isles of fragrance and Athenian fame,
Sages and Bards in classic pomp appear:
Bessarion (j) and Philelpho's (k) form severe;
Marsilius (l) rob'd in olive, Plato's priest;
Janus (m) with treasures from the learned East;
And He, who from Eleusis flaming bore
The torch of science to his native shore,
Fam'd Chrysoloras (n) and Landino (o) bold,
In studious shades high converse form'd to hold;
Politian, (p) chief of all th' enlighten'd race
In Lydian softness, and Horatian grace;
And Michael, (q) whose bold hand the gods direct,
The sculptor, painter, poet, architect,
Michael to Britain dear, so genius spoke,
When his last praise from parting (r) Reynolds broke:
And all whose brows, with ivy grac'd or bays,
Brighten'd their LEO's visionary days.
Names which I long have blest, nor blest in vain!
Oh, were I number'd in their sacred train,
To realms of purest light, where heroes dwell,
Her bolder notes the willing Muse should swell
In lyrick intonation grave and deep,
Nor dream with folly, nor with dullness sleep;
To Cowper and to Gifford leave the rod,
For songs celestial, and the Delian God:
Then calmly to the secret mount retire,
Bid Satire glance on folly, and expire.

(c) See the Experimental Essays, political, economical, and philosophical, by BENJAMIN count of RUMFORD, &c. &c. I hope the Directors of the interior Government of this country, will have the sense and wisdom to profit from this most valuable and important work, whose truly philosophic and benevolent author must feel a joy and self satisfaction, far superior to any praise which man can bestow.

(d) A distinguishing feature in all his plans for the relief of the poor, the idle, the abandoned and the wretched. The mode of conferring mercy and apparent kindness i not always mild and merciful. I have too much respect for my readers to enlarge on this virtue. May they all feel experimentally, that the merciful, in the true sense, shall obtain mercy.

(e) See the important, convincing, and eloquent Letters addressed to Thomas Payne, author of the Age of Reason 2d part, by the Rev. Richard Watson, Bishop of Landaff, stiled "An Apology for the Bible." Every person wishes, that the Bishop had changed, or would even now change, the word "Apology" to "Defence," or any other: not that the word "apology" it absolutely improper, but because the original meaning of it is obsolete. To write such a book as this is TO DO A REAL SERVICE TO MANKIND. A cheap addition of it is printed, and it is hoped will be circulated throughout the kingdom.—I would also particularly recommend the perusal of the sixth Letter of the Series of Letters which the Bishop addressed to Mr Gibbon. To young men of fashion and of abilities, originally good, but obscured by libertine life and conversation, it will be peculiarly serviceable, as well as to those who are led astray by some modern pretended discoveries in natural philosophy, now a favorite mode of introducing and enforcing scepticism and infidelity. I think also that his "Defence of Revealed Religion" in two short sermons is of great merit and general utility. Bishop Watson should often write, but with the utmost caution and accuracy and consideration, because his works will always be read.

(f) "The banks of the river of Babylon, the Euphrates, &c. were so thickly planted with willow trees, as the learned Bochart informs us, that the country of Babylon was thence called "the Vale of Willows," and on those trees were suspended, the lyres of the captive Hebrews neglected and unstrung." See Persian Miscellanies, by William Ouseley, Esq 4to. p. 101, abounding with learned, pleasing and curious information. It is one of those works, which not being adapted to general reading should be patronized and purchased by men of fortune and education. I beg leave for the same reasons, to recommend the ingenious Mr. Maurice's History of Indostan, in 4to and his Indian Antiquities in 8vo. The subject is indeed in the region of fancy and conjecture, and Mr. M's work abounds with both. But such erudition, ingenuity, and unremitting diligence, should not fail of honorable reward. Sint hic etiam sua præmia laudi ‡ (See also P. of L Dial. IV.)

‡ Virg. En 1 v. 61.

(g) See "The Life of Lorenzo de Medici, called the Magnificent, by William Roscoe," 2 vol. 4to. I cannot but congratulate the public upon this great and important addition to classical history, which I regard as a phænomenon in Literature, in every point of view. It is pleasant to consider a gentleman, not under the auspices of an university, or beneath the shelter of academic bowers, but in the practice of the law and business of great extent, and resident in a remote commereial town (where nothing is heard of but Guinea ships, slaves, blacks, and merchandize, in the town of Liverpool;) investigating and describing the rise and progress of every polite art in Italy at the revival of learning, with acuteness, depth and precision; with the spirit of the poet, and solidity of the historian. It is pleasant to consider this. For my own part, I have not terms sufficient to express my admiration of his genius and erudition, or my gratitude for the amusement and information I have received. I may add, that the manner in which Mr. Roscoe procured from the libraries at Florence, many of the various inedited manuscripts, with which he has enriched the appendix to his history was singularly curious; not from a fellow or traveller of the Dilettanti, but from a commercial man in the intervals of his employment. I shall not violate the dignity of the work by slight objections to some modes of expression, or to a few words, or to some occasional sentiments in the historian of a Republic. But I recommend it to our country as a work of unquestionable genius, and of uncommon merit. It adds the name of Roscoe to the very first rank of English Classical Historians.

(j) Cardinal Bessarion, a learned and eloquent prelate, honored with the purple by Pope Eugenius the 4th in 1439 For the most ample account of the restoration of Greek literature in Italy the reader must consult the learned Hodius de Græcis Illustribus, Linguæ Græcæ literarumque humaniorum Instauratoribus, which may easily be procured; and, if convenient, Tiraboschi's History, which is voluminous. Tiraboschi was the librarian at Modena.

(k) Philelpho.—A professor in various sciences in different parts of Italy, who introduced many curious Greek MSS. into that country; a man of erudition, but turbulent and intractable in his temper. "Ingenium vagum, multiplex, volubile." See also the academie des Inscriptions, tom 10 p. 691—751.

(l) Marsilius Ficinus, the great disciple of Plato, whose doctrines alone occupied his attention, or rather devotion, and which appeared in all his conduct and conversation

(m) Janus Lascaris, a man of eloquence and politeness, and of imperial descent. He was a literary missionary of Lorenzo, and brought with him from the east a treasure of two hundred manuscripts. See also Hodius de Græcis Illustribus, p. 294. for several curious particulars.

(n) Emanuel Chrysoloras, stiled by his cotemporaries, the Patriarch of literature, principally the Grecian

(o) Christophero Landino, a professor of poetry and rhetoric in Florence, a writer of spirit and depth of knowledge; and author of a work, once celebrated, called the "Disputationes Camaldulenses," formed on a plan similar to the Tusculan disputations. The scene supposed is a monastery in the wood of Camaldoli. The account of it by Mr. Roscoe, is particularly pleasing and judicious. Vol. 1, p. 103, &c.

(p) See Mr. Roscoe's account of that finished and polite scholar and poet, Angelo Politiano It were an injury to abridge it.

(q) Michael Angelo Buonarotti. I wish, however, to refer the reader again to Mr. Roscoe, v. 2. p. 201, &c. who gives animation to any subject, new or old; for I know not how it is, but as it seems to me,

HUIC Musæ indulgent omnes, HUNC POSCIT APOLLO‡

‡ Vide Art. Poet, l. 1. v. 327.

(r) In Sir Joshua Reynold's final address to the Royal Academy, as their President, he concluded an able panegyric on that mighty master, by saying that the last word he wished to pronounce from the chair was "MICHAEL ANGELO." It was a word heard by the audience with the deep silence of regret. It absolutely repairs me to talk of these great men. Such is the power of departed genius!

Far pleasanter to me is the language of commendation than the tone of censure. I wish to expatiate freely, when I can, in the groves and retreats of the wise, the virtuous, and the eminent, with philosophers, and statesmen, and poets, and historians, and orators of high fame. I love the regions of the morning, and the light of the sun.

GENERAL ORDERS.

Philadelphia, April 2, 1799.

☞ THE march of the Troops, ordered for Wednesday, is POSTPONED till THURSDAY, the 4th inst. at 8 o'clock A. M.

By order of Brigadier General Macpherson

JONATHAN WILLIAMS,
Aid-de-Camp.

Yesterday arrived the sloop Friendship, Capt. Wheaton, from Charleston—By this arrival we have received a Charleston paper of the 22d ult. one day later than our last. We find nothing in it except the following:

CHARLESTON, MARCH 22.

Extract of a letter from Nassau (N. P.) dated March 12th 1799.

Yesterday the Glasgow, Gamble, arrived here from Cork, which she left the 5th of January with the West India Fleet. An official account of the death of Buonaparte and the dispersion of his army was just then received and published by general Miers, the commander at Cork. It came from Vienna where it had been received from Constantinople.

In Italy the game is begun, the king of Naples at the head of a powerful army had ordered the French troops out of the Roman States and was pushing on—A curious correspondence between the French general Championet and the Neapolitan general Mack as published by the French Pentarchs is taken as grounds for declaring war against the kings of Naples and Sardinia. The Season of the year and inferiority at sea will prevent the French sending sufficient reinforcements in Italy in time to be of any effect. An expedition was forming in England for Brabant; two battalions of 1050 men each, from the guards, form part of it and it was said that the whole fencibles and militia would volunteer their services, being anxious to come in for some glory in beating the French and not allow it exclusively to the Marines.

This year I am persuaded finishes the war. France reduced to her primitive outline, will be left to adjust her internal concerns without foreign influence; and with respect to the colonial business Britain will adjust that by her own discretion.

The following described capital house and lots situated in Potts Town, about 36 miles from Philadelphia, being part of the estate of Thomas Mayburry, deceased.

The Mansion house standing on the Main streets, built with stone and the best materials, commodiously divided into rooms and well finished throughout—with an airy entry and good cellars, forty-two feet in front and thirty six feet in depth—adjoining is a Stone Piazza, stove room and kitchen with lodging rooms over them—a well of good water in the yard—and a stone milk house with a smoke house over it—a good garden, &c. on the south end of the lot are a brew house, carriage house and a large stone barn—with extensive stables for horses, cows &c.
